Appendix D – Predicted noise and vibration levels

The following table (ordered by Shaft sites) provides the highest predicted noise and vibration level (worst case) for various construction activities when works are at the closest location to each receiver for all locations (including works within the road reserve identified in italics and greyed out). Highest noise levels are typically at first floor level or above. A 2 m barrier has been included as part of the standard mitigation process for Watercare. Where predictions exceed applicable noise limits between 70-80 dB  $L_{Aeq}(15min)$  are identified in yellow and noise levels above 80 dB  $L_{Aeq}(15min)$  are in red.

Where a receiver falls within the assessment area for non-road reserve works but is situated closer to a local connection shaft within the road reserve, this has been noted and the corresponding results are shown in brackets.

Vibration levels shown are for the worst case of both shaft and open trenching scenarios. Where an exceedance of the relevant DIN 4150-3:1999 is predicted, these are due to open trenching works.
